Three Main Features of the Tool

1. Minimal Specification

To answer the question "in what ways are European cars and US cars similar/ different", you need to specify at least European cars and US cars.

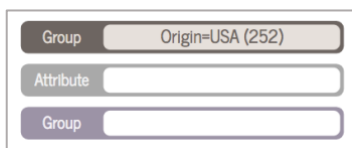

To answer the question "to what other groups is US cars similar", you need to specify at least US cars.

If you use Excel to compare US cars and European cars, for example, you need to perform a series of steps to arrive at the answer. With minimal specification, you can specify the groups of interest (e.g., US cars and European cars) and the system will automatically figure out the rest for you.

2. Recommendations

The underlined text is the results recommended by the system.

3. Explanation of the Recommendations

When you hover your cursor over a recommendation, the tool explains why it recommends the information to you by showing the explanation in a small window.
